Get Your Career Going in the Right Direction!

Roadway Express, the nation's premier over-the-road trucking company, has partnered with the Earle C. Clements Job Corps Center to offer a training program for students with no truck-driving experience. Train for four to six months and you can be on your way to becoming a professional truck driver. The training involves both classroom work and hands-on driving with Roadway employees.

ENTRY REQUIREMENTS

- Be between ages 21½-24
- Have a valid driver's license and clean driving record
- Pass a drug screen and physical exam
- Have a high school diploma or GED
- Conduct a favorable interview with Roadway staff

Roadway Speaks Out

"Their driving skills were better than some experienced drivers that we get in here," says linehaul driver and trainer J.R. Newsome. "I was amazed that they had everything we needed in a driver."

In Personnel Manager Maureen Massa's 18 years at Roadway, she has seen a lot of people pass through the employment door. "Many of them were less prepared to enter Roadway's workforce than the Job Corps graduates," says Massa. "When I first met the students who went on to be the first graduates of the program, I saw that they were a fine group of young men and women with the skills and attitude to be successful."

Students Want Careers with Roadway

"When I graduate I would like to work for Roadway Express. The wages are great! I can make a good living for my family and retire from Roadway."

– Reginald Jackson

"I want a career with Roadway truck driving, an industry women are not predominately in. I see a great career opportunity!"

– C. Melissa Johnson
